RescuePRO With License Code

An award winning product, RescuePRO was created to be the most useful, reliable and powerful recovery tool in the world. RescuePRO is the software of choice for thousands of professionals worldwide, and is the only tool that can reliably recover the most common file types on most of the current operating systems. It is especially designed to recover files from all kinds of memory cards (SD and SDHC/HC cards, Compact Flash, CF cards, Memory Stick cards, etc.).

Deterministic Data Recovery for All Memory Cards: One of the newest features of RescuePRO 8 includes a deterministic storage of found file headers. RescuePRO 8 now gives you the ability to see which files are recovered, and which files are not. This feature is a great way to efficiently recover data on your cards, as you can only see the files that have been recovered.

Limits a Disk Space Consumption: When using the built-in recovery function, RescuePRO will eat up as much disk space as possible in order to find files on the memory card. It will not save the files in order not to use up precious space. Because of this, the space used by files after recovery is never bigger than the available space on the memory card (without any over-allocation).

No "Hole Punching": RescuePRO never "hits" data areas but only tries to retrieve the files from the memory card like a vacuum cleaner.

Scan All File Types: RescuePRO can scan all memory cards so that it can recover any possible type of file.

RescuePRO Features:

- A fast data recovery tool that even works with SDHC/HC cards

Q: How do I generate a qr code for salesforce I am currently using the following JS function to generate a qr code based on a salesforce objectId/id. Is there a way for me to pass in the first record of my query instead of hard coding it? Can this be done with a string parameter instead of a string literal?

function createQRCode(id) { var data = qrConfig(!Account.Id} */); $('#btnImage').attr('src', 'data:image/png;base64,'+data.image);
